RUSS PEAGE PLAN

Report Danish King Was Used as Go-Between, But Czar Refused.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 9 .- From absolutely trustworthy sources. the Bourge Gazette learns that last week Emperor William, through the king of Denmark, offered the Russians terms of peace. The reply of the czar to the Danish monarch's letter was the categorical declaration that at the present time there could be no question of peace negotiations.

These statements are by no means improbable. Having failed to carry out her original program of crushing France in the first few months of the war, Germany has now altered her general plan and is straining every nerve to eliminate Russia from the number of her antagonists in order to be able to concentrate all energies against the allies in the west, when they at last are in a position to cause her serious inconvenience.

Germany had hoped, by the momentum of her assault on both flanks of the Polish salient, to cut off and utterly destroy the Russian arimes occupying it and thus reduce Russia to impotence,

No doubt her calculations were largely based on the idea that the Russians would cling desperately to the Warsaw and Vistula fortresses and thus allow themselves to be

Last week it must have become clear to the Germans that their plot was frustrated. Thanks to the timely decision of the Russian chief of command, Warsaw as evacuated promptly and with thoroughness. The Germans will find that the Polish capital is an embarrassing luxury.

It is quite natural that under such circumstances the kaiser should dangle temptations before the eyes of Russia. No doubt the terms he offered seemed to himself generous and magnanimous. However, the emphatic rejection of his offer is a clinching proof of the steadfastness and constancy of gallant Russia, Furthe general staff, who laces it beyond all doubt that Russia deliberately adopted the policy of 1812 in retreating everywhere at ease and in good of everything that could be of ad-
